Please note:

Badger Trust has compiled this list of places to watch badgers from various sources. We have checked the information as far as possible but have not visited most of the locations. Badger Trust cannot take responsibility for any inaccuracies and recommend that individuals make their own enquiries. We would be pleased to receive any comments on the entries on this list.

There are a number of things to remember in order to watch badgers successfully, whilst causing minimal disturbance to the animals themselves:

- Ensure that you have the permission of the landowner before you enter their land.
- Wear suitable clothing. Dark, inconspicuous clothes are best. It is also important that clothes are warm and rustle proof, since you may have to sit for some time before you see any badgers!
- Remain downwind when approaching the sett. Badgers have an excellent sense of smell and can find human scent particularly disturbing. Badgers often bolt underground at the slightest hint of unusual smells.
- Be as quiet as possible both when approaching and leaving the sett. Try to resist the temptation to whisper, no matter how excited you may become!
- Use insect repellent as sitting still, outside, at dawn or dusk, makes it likely that you will attract biting insects. Be warned and go prepared!
